You play as a zombie-like character named "Eg", who is strolling in a town after a long walk. To your surprise, the town appears to be occupied by humans, but is in fact under the control of zombies. A sudden explosion makes Eg fall into the town and he starts to be ravaged by the zombies. Eg tries to escape and he must find his way out. Eg has no weapons of fighting. Instead, he relies on a variety of found objects for his survival, including a bottle, books, a backpack, a toilet bowl, door frame, a bed, a corpse and several boxes. You will try to find out the cause of that explosion and stop the zombies. The way out has its own conditions. You can find a lot of hidden objects around the town, use them to help you get out. There are also many locations where you can put out fires. Have fun playing this game... Features: • A whole new gaming experience: Enter the world of zombies! • Simple controls: How to play the game, and how to get out of a situation. • Unique, challenging levels: 10 exciting levels, each with unique puzzles and challenges. • Numerous found objects that can be used for creative purposes: fire extinguisher, bottle, book, corpse, coffin, toilet bowl, window, light bulb, fan, refrigerator, lighter, ball, human skull and scarecrow. • Challenge your friends by sharing a copy of the game: be the first to get out of the zombie-infested town! EXCERPT: After the explosion, Eg heard a gurgling sound coming from somewhere close by. From where? The fire had already put out by then, so Eg decided to investigate the sound. All he found was a boarded up door. No, not just a door, but a small bedroom. The room's bed was still there, but the mattress had a small hole in it. A hole that appeared to have been made with an object... something that had been thrown through a small hole at the bottom of the mattress. Eg looked closely, but could not find any traces of what the object had been. Despite the hole, Eg decided to give the bed a closer look. What he found inside was another surprise. A sheet of paper! That's right: he saw a sheet of paper! Not just any sheet of paper – but a first grade school

About This ContentRae Ritenour is a star of stage, screen, and arena in the 70s and 80s, and the founder of a new wave of action-oriented and acrobatic performance art. He was the son of a jockey, and a wild and tumble-loving child. He learned to master a variety of disciplines with plenty of competition, training, and practice in riding, fencing, and gymnastics. And he watched circus acts and the pure entertainment value of acrobatics with an eye toward what was yet to come. He was a natural acrobat who preferred to find his footing on the brink of fall. His actions weren't calculated or routine. His art was daring, skillful, and driven by a love for danger. It earned him the nickname The Ghost rider. Becoming The Ghost rider tells the story of a young jockey who falls from a stifling life in the stable and into a world of circus life. He has always had a fascination with acrobatics, but it was only when he was abandoned by his father that he was led to explore his love. He soon learns that the circus is a wild and dirty business, but he quickly earns a place as a top rider. Facing the seamy underbelly of the circus, he finds unexpected romance, a family, and love. But his sudden fame only highlights his one flaw - his overbearing and manipulative girlfriend. If he lets her rule him, his success and true life are at risk. If he doesn't follow her, he might find himself at a crossroads between a world he wants, but a future he knows he'll regret.
